Many Student Elections Reported by College

Large Number of Students Secure Positions for This Fall

A very large percentage of the graduates for the past year have secured positions for next year.

The following two-year students have secured town schools; Luverne Appeldorn, Edgerton; Ruth Beseler, Mountain Lake; Edythe Bowen, Madelia; Hazel Chamberlain, Minneiska; Myrtle Doblar, Houston; Alice Feigel, Adams; Hazel Groger, Clyde; Virginia Johnson, Madelia; Ruth Newman, West Concord; Fern Nelson, Minnesota City; Marguerite Rideout, Teachers College Penmanship; Beverly Wolcott, Waseca; Dorothy Wiler, Madelia.

In addition to above list of persons, over fifty students have secured rural positions.

Bluff Side Park Scene of Jollity

The all college picnic of the summer session was held at Bluff Side Park on Wednesday afternoon and evening, June 27, from five until eight o'clock. A large gathering which included the faculty members and their families and the student body and their guests attended. Coffee and ice cream were served by the college. Games which added much to the success of the picnic were baseball, catch, volleyball, and deck tennis.

An impromptu quartet composed of four distinguished faculty members: Dr. Minné, Dr. Tozier, Mr. Grimm, and Mr. Pawalek stimulated the volleyball players with their melodies.

Identification tags were worn by many of the students. Your name, home address, and hobby were put on the tags. This method of identification helped many to become acquainted.

MR. GALLIGAN

Galligan Granted Leave of Absence

Mr. Glendon E. Galligan, athletic director and coach, has been granted a year's leave of absence, starting this fall, from his duties here at the college. He plans to continue study in hygiene, physical education, and anatomy.

Mr. Galligan has not definitely stated where he plans to continue his studies. He may go to Columbia in New York City where he studied after graduating from the University of Washington.

During his seven years of teaching and directing at W.S.T.C., he has become popular with the students and the school authorities. The purple teams have been unusually successful under his guidance, and a varied athletic program has been carried out under his direction.

President Maxwell has gone to Chicago to secure a man with teaching and coaching experience similar to that of Mr. Galligan.

Mr. Galligan also states that he wants one more year to study hygiene and physical education which would better qualify him to teach these subjects when he desires to retire from active coaching.

Jill Edwards Is Speaker For Graduation Today

MISS GILDEMEISTER

College Teacher Resigns Position

Miss Theda Gildemeister, after thirty-six years of faithful and efficient service, has resigned her position as instructor in education at the Winona State Teachers College. Her creative logical and constructive mind has done much to further the growth of this institution.

She has been a rare leader. Her approach to any situation is impersonal. She believes in the spirit of youth. She has shown a genius for discovering the talent that has lain latent in the young candidates who come to be trained for the teaching vocation.

The enduring qualities of this inspiring teacher's in the heart mind and soul are wide and will be as lasting as is the conception of public education to which her life has been dedicated. Among the large number of devoted women who have labored for better conceptions of what true education is and can be made to achieve, she will always remain one of the most worthy representatives.

Summer Faculty Adds Three New Teachers

Three additional teachers are members of the faculty for the summer term. They are the Misses Anchester, Edbloom and Feetham.

Miss Anchester is teaching reading technics and primary handwork. She has a master's degree from Columbia University and is on the regular faculty there as an instructor in the Lincoln School of Teachers College.

The Misses Feetham and Edbloom are in charge of the work of teaching exceptional children. Miss Feetham instructs in the methods of teaching and Miss Edbloom is the demonstration teacher.

Winona is the only teachers college in the state that has an approved course in this type of work. Mr. Kenneth Nilsson of Saint Paul is the state supervisor and he visits the Winona classes regularly each summer.

Lecture By Popular Radio Star and Music To Be Features

Jill Edwards, noted radio and platform star, has been selected as speaker for the Commencement exercises to be held this afternoon. Miss Edwards is a gay, whimsical, intimate and altogether delightful speaker.

Jill Edwards is also a teacher. After her graduate training in the School of Speech of Northwestern University, she took charge of the work in Public Speaking at the Education Studio of the Central Y.W.C.A. She is now conducting classes in speech for club women with marked success.

The college chorus under the direction of Mr. Grimm will sing and Miss Bard at the organ will play the processional and recessional marches. Director F. A. Sheehan will present the diplomas.

The following persons are candidates for graduation this afternoon; Marie B. Anderson, Cannon Falls; Frank Blatnik, Chisholm; Edythe Bowen, Lake City; Laura Brietkreutz, Olivia; Vera Chamberlain, Hastings; Elsie Christenson, Red Wing; Hazel Groger, Saint Charles; Beth Hartig, Miles City, Montana; Mildred Herrick, Utica; Agnes R. ## Burmeister's Play For Summer Dance

The first college summer-school party was held in the college gymnasium, Friday evening, June 15.

The early part of the evening was spent playing various games involving little skills such as throwing darts and dropping clothespins in a milk bottle. After many points were earned in each event, Miss Pendergast had charge of several get-acquainted games including handshaking on a large scale. Winners of these games were awarded penny suckers as prizes.

Dancing was enjoyed to the music of Burmeister's orchestra until the usual hour. The punch bowl, presided over by Miss Richards and assisted by the Misses Alice Max and Margaret Le Gros, was a favorite rendezvous during the dancing.

After High School - What?

Only a few short weeks ago hundreds of high school auditoriums throughout the state of Minnesota were packed with people gathered there to witness the bestowing of the high school diploma upon thousands of the finest young people of the state— young people no longer to be considered boys and girls, no longer to be called high school students, but to be looked upon as truly young men and young women. And as these young people, each carrying with natural pride the prized diploma as the tangible evidence of something attained, something accomplished, left the halls where they had worked and played for four years, it is certain that many looked backward with a feeling of regret. It is also certain that many, particularly of the more serious, tried to look ahead and wondered, "What next?"

In more normal times many of these high school graduates would immediately find jobs, would at once be absorbed into the great army of those hurrying to work each day. Not yet, however, can we count the times as normal. It is still true in general that whatever jobs are available are given, and rightly so, to the men who have families to support, so that it is still difficult for the recent graduate to secure a position. What then is he to do?

Never has it been more true than now that it pays to prepare adequately for one's work in life. The man or the woman well and amply trained has a better chance of obtaining a position than has the poorly trained one; also, statistics are easily available which show that the income of the college-trained man is, on the average, considerably higher than that of the man with only a high school education. Financially, then, it pays to go to college. Especially is this true at the present time when the cost of attending college is lower than ever before.

But financial considerations are not the only factors. The more one studies, the more one learns, the more one knows and thinks, the better prepared one is to meet whatever problems life holds for him, to solve them sanely and happily, and to enjoy the good, the beautiful things to be found all about him. From the standpoint of developing all one's capabilities in order to live a full, rich, complete life, a college education also pays.

In no field of endeavor is there a greater chance to live this full, well rounded life than in teaching; in no other field is there a greater chance to give to the world while at the same time growing and developing. For the energetic, ambitious young man or woman, the answer to the question, "What next?" is easy. It is, "On to college!" To this the young man, the young woman, who is sincere, capable, and desirous of adding to the welfare and the advancement of the world, may well add, "To a teachers' college!"

Dr. Ella Murphy Elected To Staff

Dr. Ella Murphy of Shenandoah, Iowa, who substituted in English last winter during the absence of Mr. Reed, was elected to a position in our English department by the State Teachers College Board at its meeting held at Saint Paul on June 5.

Miss Murphy completed her undergraduate work at Smith College, Northampton, Massachusetts. Her work for the Master's degree was done in the University of Wisconsin, and her work for the doctorate both at Columbia University and in the University of Iowa. She has taught high-school English in Austin, Minnesota, in Des Moines and Shenandoah, Iowa, and has carried college work in the teachers college at Cedar Falls, Iowa, Yenching University at Peiping, China, and in Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Missouri.

In the period following her return to her home with the close of our winter quarter, Miss Murphy's father passed away. Miss Murphy will therefore have her mother with her at Winona for most of the time.

South Moon Under

By MARJORIE KINNAN RAWLINGS

The dreary and fear pervaded life of the Florida scrub-dweller is depicted in this piece of writing, by Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings and she gives the reader an unusually fine picture.

The home of the palmetto, diamond-back rattler and the moonshiner is portrayed for the reader through the eyes of Piety Jacklin and her likable son Lant.

The conversation of the characters is written in the dialect of the scrub-dwellers. This adds a great deal of interest in the story for the reader who enjoys dialect.

There is no special plot to the story. It is rather a chronicle of the lives of Piety who loved to work outdoors, and of her son Lant who loved nature.

I recommend this book because of its interest and its unusual background.

"Symbolese"

When one glances at a present day newspaper, he finds himself completely deluged with a variety of unintelligible symbols such as F.E.R.A., A.A.A., H.O.L.C., P.W.A., or practically any other possible combination. A stutterer might find A.A.A. rather convenient. Otherwise, I fail to see the advantage. Through the years we have become educated to W.C.T.U., P.T.A., or B.V.D., but these innumerable new abbreviations have placed the average American in such a quandary that I have begun to believe that "ignorance would be bliss."

The very fact that such a great deal of ignorance has been displayed is proof enough that the idea is faulty. How many have not interpreted N.R.A. to mean No Republicans Allowed, or Norwegians Rule America? The latter seems the more logical in this middle west. C.C.C. could very nicely refer to many a town's commercial club. Why not Caledonia Commercial Club, just as well, as Civilian's Conservation Corp? When I saw H.O.L.C. in print above a rustic building in a lakeshore town, it appealed to me as Homely Old Ladies Camp. How could I know it referred to the Home Owner's Loan Corporation?

If public spirit can be aroused by such a foreign language, why not establish such a code for every day conversation and term it "symbolese?" It might be convenient but I doubt it; it is more likely to be confusing. Imagine the following dialogue:

Alice — "R.F.C.?" (Ready for church?)
Charlie — "N.R.A. or P.W.A." (No, run along, or please wait awhile.)
Alice — "C.W.A.?" (Charlie, want aspirin?)
Charlie — "A.A.A." (Anacin's alright, Alice.)
Alice — (Excitedly) "C.C.C.?" (Charlie! Charlie! Choking?) "H.O.L.C.?" (Hold on! Look calm!)
Charlie — "F.E.R.A.!" (Fainting! 'Elp! Rub! — Alice!)

Charlie might faint ten times before Alice could translate the message.

And so I ask, why encourage ignorance? Why change the language of an intelligent people into a "symbolese" which places us in a dilemma of misinterpretation?

— GEORGIA GARLID, Wabasha.

Weariness

God made us all so obvious
And his our places of retreat.
Our fears and hopes, our hates and loves
Are other people's drink and meat.
For all the lower animals
He made a sort of camouflage.
They match the earth they're born into,
This beetle green, this bird the blue.
And if they hate, are false or true
We know it not — it's all mirage.

I'm tired making up excuse
For hates too cool and loves too warm.
I wish I were the nimble squirrel
I'd get some nuts, a sack to swell
And find a tree that's not in use,
Bury deep my life's supply,
And hidden, from my hole I'd spy
Upon the world indifferently.

Arcadia Course Is Scene Of Men's Summer Golfing Tournament

A very well planned program of men's athletic activities has been carried out this summer under the direction of Coach Galligan.

Golf, tennis, diamondball and volleyball have been played enthusiastically by a large number of men.

A men's golf tournament was held at the Arcadia, Wisconsin, Country Club. This is one of the sportiest courses in the state of Wisconsin and served very well to rest the skill of our potential Bobby Jones's. The contest was a handicap affair. Theodore Soloski and Ernest Saari, both of Mountain Iron, tied for the handicap score. Orville Thomas of Adrian was hailed as the "most honest" golfer and Arthur Tait of Mankato was awarded a prize for losing the most golf balls. Low scores were held by three faculty men, G. E. Galligan, Dr. Minné and S. J. Pawelek.

Frank Blatnik of Chisholm defeated Laurel Pennock of Elbow Lake for the men's tennis championship. It was a spirited contest and was well played throughout.

Diamondball was played at the college field each Monday and Wednesday evening. The teams were captained by W. E. Hubert of Lamberton and Ralph Rice of Dexter.

Volleyball was very popular. A large number turned out each Tuesday and Thursday afternoon and participated in some very lively games.

Prospects for Squad Insure Winning Team

Prospects for a winning football team this fall are very bright and the successor to Coach Galligan will have very fine material with which to work.

Returning lettermen are: Horace Chase, Farmington; Eugene Jaspers, Shakopee; Fred Moilanen, Rochester; Delos Simon, Winona; Robert Thurley, Winona; Vincent Vezbickie, Virginia; Verne Herman, Plainview; Orland Johnson, Winona; Myles Peterson, Wabasha; William Gebhard, New Ulm; Bert Laugen, Spring Valley; and William Thompson, Wabasha.

Former squad members who will return are: Kendall Fuller, Altura; Victor Gislason, Minneapolis; Roy Prentiss, Le Roy; Forrest Sadler, Preston and Orville Thomas, Adrian.

A large number of excellent team prospects are expected to enroll with the opening of the fall term.

Harriet Bendickson '29 who has been teaching in Madelia will teach at Rushford next year.

Golfing Golfers Gaff, Guff, Grumble and Grind

A whining swish. The ball described a glittering arc, hung for a second above a yawning sand bank, and slumped to the bottom of the sun-bitten hill at the foot of the green. Such is the suspicious beginning of this tale.

"Nice going."

"Swell drive Ted."

"Well it's about time. These woods were getting me down."

"Never mind that. Look where mine is. C'mon let's get out of here. Lord but it's hot."

"Look at this swinging bridge. Ain't that somethin'? Say, maybe my back isn't hot. Martyr to a tan that's me."

"Give me a Lucky will you, Ernie?"

"Young punks like you shouldn't smoke. Now up on the Range . . ."

"Forget it. Some tresses! I could build a house on this green and retire."

"You will if you don't make that mashie shot up this hill."

"Leave it to me. This is the best hole on the course and I aim to please."

"That reminds me of the time we were playing at Virginia and you didn't make a hole in one. Wotta man!"

"Step aside mister while I address this ball into yonder hole. That green looks as though it were hanging up in the clouds — if there were any."

"Hey Tom, where have you been all the time? I thought you were on the green already. That calls for a quarter."

"What do I get if I sink this one? Satisfaction?"

"You'll fall over dead. Shoot and get it over with."

"Am I good or amn't I? Now up on the Range . . ."

"Yea, I've heard there is a place like that. Holes on the ground and trees 150 miles away."

"Shoot and give your gab a rest. You have something to aim at now."

"Hi fellows watch this shot so I don't lose the ball."

"Well, well, little Art! How many shots have you had up this precipice anyway. Hurry up before that foursome behind us lays one on your conk. Which would be too bad."

"A beauty. Who's that man, mamma?" Bobby Jones?"

"No go. Bobby doesn't have a back like an Indian."

"And he doesn't carry his own clubs."

"Quite so. Now up on the Range . . ."

"As I've heard on numerous previous occasions."

"Now where's my ball? Have one of youse rats been playing it?"

"Don't get loud. A man of your caliber should be able to find one. I said a man."

"You said — which makes it of no import."

"Tom, where's this Ranger's ball?"

"It's on the green. Hey guys duck! One of the mugs behind us just drove."

"Give him our respects with a club."

"You have to be able to take it. That's me."

"You're right. That's you. I've lost three balls already. Good technique I'd say."

"Ssssh! I am about to putt. These sand greens give me the creeps. If they could walk they'd sneak up on me and knife me in the back."

"Right that time. The way the ultra-violets have been getting to my back, it feels . . . like someone had been carving my initials in it."

"Now you guys do your best to be honest and tell me your scores."

"Cheerful cusses these Rangers. Well to broach the subject in the most ethical way, I should say that I have implicated myself to the extent of six."

"Thanks. I gather that all the liars aren't from the Range. And the rest of you?"

"I'll take a seven."

"Same for me."

"Napoleon's definition of history: lies agreed upon."

"Pick up your clubs, sweetheart. The tired business men are in the ascendancy from the rear. Hi-ho."

"O. K. Rudy. Where do we go from here?"

"A proper question. Each with his own mind will figure this out. Let us orientate ourselves properly. Playing this course is like throwing stones at Uncle Tom in the dark."

"Right, Gandhi."

"Now up on the Range . . ."

Women's Sport Program Varied

Golf Demonstrations by Winona Professional Featured

The playground class has been working on the "whys" and "wherefores" of playground activities. This course includes sports, indoor and out-of-door games, and stunts. Perhaps you have noticed these gallant young women doing stunts on the library lawn.

Who are all these negroes around school? They are only the members of the clogging class of about thirty cloggers. Many floors are becoming acquainted with the tap-tap and the click-click of steel plates. The most outstanding feature of the work of this class is the "Way Down South" follies, a part of the July-Julep.

The rhythmic activities class consists of approximately twenty-five members. This rhythm work consists mainly of interpretive dancing and folk dancing.

The schedule for the tennis tournament has been arranged and the games are being played off. Only advanced players are competitors. The beginners' tennis class has learned the fundamental skills and have put these skills into practice. Dominador Landitcho and Ted Rothwell, winners of the tennis tournament in the spring, demonstrated a game of tennis at the W.S.T.C. courts for the benefit of the beginners' class.

Swimming still continues to be one of the most attractive of all activities open for the young women of the college. The Y.W.-C.A. pool is open from two to four in the afternoon and from seven to eight in the evenings for all W.S.T.C. women students. A supervisor is present at all times.

Golf seems to be very popular among the young women of the college. About thirty-five girls are taking golf lessons. These lessons include: an explanation of the game; practice in the swing and the drive; and demonstration and practice on the Westfield course. There will be no golf tournament as the young women of the college are not interested in competition, but in the learning of the skills and the game for their own purposes. Elmer Seeling, Westfield pro has kindly demonstrated many fundamentals to the girls.

If you hear a great deal of yelling and screaming from the east lawn some day, you will know that it is only some of our active young women playing soft ball.

Lillian Giere '28, Mary Persenius '26, Mildred Kramer '26, Vivian Peabody '28 and Altheria Grems '29 are teaching in Fairmont.

Evelyn Kuchenbecker '27 is a member of the faculty at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

And on the other two
You're glad of it.

Teachers

They are a blessed people. If they weren't I don't know how they could stand it. They have to get up early so they can teach the banker's daughter French before school starts. They correct papers in

Grammar
Arithmetic

And, of course, in Palmer

Until they get writer's cramp.

Five days a week they have to teach the adjunct absolute to the little Johnnies and Susies and the rest of the time they are supposed to be pillars of good example.

They shouldn't chew gum.

Talk loudly.

Or be unladylike.

They shouldn't have any

Revolutionary ideas

Sudden inspirations

Or youthful dilemmas.

Simply, they should be teachers.

Predicament

The movie industry wouldn't mind another war.

They've just about used up the plots of the old ones.

PSYCHOLOGY 210

"What's the thread tied around your little finger for?"

"Oh, that's to remind my wife to ask me if I forgot something she told me to remember."

SAME DIFFERENCE?

Mrs. O'Reilly: "An' what are ye going to name the baby?"

Mrs. Mulcahey: "We'll name her Hazel."

Mrs. O'Reilly: "What! With twenty-five saints to choose from, ye name her after a nut?"

We are now in one of the greatest phases of history and it is time for every good man to come to the aid of his party. If he cannot find a party go to Congress. If Congress is not in session, become a member of the Farmer's Holiday movement. Join the Army and see the world thru a porthole. If you are not in favor of these just remember Washington at Gettysburg and Huey Long at Long Island.

First Entertainment Presented by Artists

The Summer Session entertainments at Winona State Teachers College began Wednesday evening, June 20, with a program by the Fisk Jubilee Singers in the college auditorium. Throughout the world where musical entertainment from abroad is accepted, there is perhaps no other organization which has done more for making American vocal and choral music known than this one.

The chorus is composed of a double quartet which gives a quantity and a quality of tone much larger than one would expect from a group of this size; however, the thing that is held uppermost by them is their quality. Their general musicality, vocal effects, tone, and taste were excellent. Much credit goes to their director, Mrs. James A. Myers, for guiding them from behind the lines to their successful and delightful performance.

OFFICIAL BULLETIN

The FERA at Washington authorizes the Emergency Education Division in the Department of Education at St. Paul to nominate students for self-help at the various colleges. Application should be made to the St. Paul office. A faculty committee will choose students approved for admission to Winona, basing the choice upon need, character, ability to do college work, and upon the desire of the student to cooperate under the plan. The amount in the case of any student will not exceed fifteen dollars per month, for which he will carry allotted work. The tasks must be "socially desirable," but do not include regular class instruction, though students may be assigned to extension classes, adult education, recreation, and to other activities that increase the usefulness of the college to the community. The hourly rate of pay will be that usually paid for similar work and not be less than thirty cents an hour. The amount, however, will not be so large as was given last year when the state itself shared in the plan.

Applications for work-relief should be made to the Emergency Education Division, State Office Building, St. Paul.

A special meeting of the State Teachers College Board will be held in Bemidji next Saturday. The principal business will be a study of the proposed budget for the six colleges, to be submitted to the "Big Three" in early September. Five of such members of the Board have been appointed since the close of the last Legislature. These new members will be less familiar with the financial problems of the institutions and will thus seek additional time in which to complete the recommendations. The Board will meet in Bemidji for the reason that this institution has not yet been provided with adequate building accommodations for the care of the increasing number of students.

Lights

Lights — twinkling playful things
Some glaring, bold and colorful,
Some glowing dim and low
In soft, warm shades.
Some flickering on and on
Others steady and faithful.
Lights—man's most treasured gift.
